

What the invention claimed is:

1. A terminal comprising a protruding contact portion disposed at a first end thereof, a mounting plate portion disposed at a second end thereof, a plurality of I-shaped spring wire portions
5 connected in series between said protruding contact portion and said mounting plate portion, a bonding tip extended from a bottom side of said mounting plate portion for soldering to a circuit board, two hooks protruding from two opposite lateral sides of said mounting plate portion for positioning, and two springy retaining
10 strips protruded from said mounting plate portion and spaced between said hooks for positioning.